

CLEVELAND, OH -- We're hiring! The Greater Cleveland Regional Transit Authority (RTA) is pleased to announce that it is launching a recruitment effort to hire more bus drivers and mechanics.

Importantly, bus driver candidates are not required to already have a CDL. RTA provides the training. And RTA offers competitive salaries, benefits and college reimbursement, among other incentives.

"RTA is looking for local talent to join our team," said RTA's Acting General Manager/CEO, Floun'say Caver. "We are excited to be hiring bus drivers as well as mechanics and to be an important part of spurring on the economic recovery that we are all hoping to generate post-COVID-19."

Once hired, RTA offers free training at Tri-C to prepare candidates to take the temporary CDL test. Once operator candidates have obtained the temporary CDL, then they begin the 12-week training program.
