

Cheryl Boley

Cheryl Boley is the Director of Perry County Transit and Perry County Job and Family Services (PCJFS). She was appointed Director of PCJFS in 2010. At the request of the Perry County Board of Commissioners, Boley brought the Perry County transit system under the direction of PCJFS where she put it on a path of advancement and growth. The resulting alignment of agencies ensures that Perry County’s most vulnerable citizens have access to medical appointments and employment opportunities while positively impacting area businesses.

During her time overseeing Perry County Transit, Boley has been instrumental in reengineering the county’s transit program, establishing strong relationships with residents and businesses, and providing more flexible transportation options for users. This effort has included the development of the Region 8 Mobility Solution Center. The “R8MSC,” as it is known, is a partnership between ten counties within ODOT’s Mobility Region 8 that matches mobility resources with individual needs.

In 2017, Boley accepted an award from the Ohio Department of Transportation (ODOT) for system of the year at the ODOT Civil Rights Symposium for promoting diversity and inclusion to underserved populations.
